Amendments to “Anti-Litter” and
“Home Solicitation” Regulations

ANTI-LITTER REGULATIONS

CHAPTER 7A, DALLAS CITY CODE

I. Current Requirements:

- Handbilling is prohibited on uninhabited or vacant private premises.
- Handbilling is prohibited when requested not to by a person on the premises or where a sign states no handbills or no solicitors.
- Where handbilling is not prohibited, handbills must be handed directly to an occupant of the premises or deposited in a manner that prevents them from blowing away. Mailboxes may not be used for handbills.
- Requirements apply to commercial and noncommercial handbills.

ANTI-LITTER REGULATIONS CHAPTER 7A, DALLAS CITY CODE

II. Possible Amendments:

- Provide that the person “causing” an unlawful handbill distribution commits an offense in addition to the person actually distributing the handbills.

- Add a presumption that the person named in a handbill is responsible for a handbill violation.

- Provide defenses to prosecution if the handbill was delivered by the U.S. Post Office or a private courier service, was an official legal notice, or was delivered at the occupant’s request.

HOME SOLICITATIONS
CHAPTER 42, DALLAS CITY CODE
(Possible Amendments)

I. General Provisions:

- Registration is required for persons conducting home solicitations, whether personally or through an employee or agent.
- Purpose is to prevent criminal activity (including burglary and fraud) and to minimize the unwelcome disturbance of citizens or disruption of privacy.
- “Home Solicitation” means the business of soliciting, selling, or taking orders for goods or services or distributing commercial printed matter on residential premises.
- Defenses are provided, including for educational, charitable, religious, or political solicitations; solicitations conducted at the invitation of the property owner or occupant; and newspaper sales requested by the property owner or occupant.
- Before taking any enforcement action, a police officer or code inspector must inquire as to the reason for the person being on the premises and consider whether a defense applies.
- Violators may be fined up to $500.
