

Urban Land Bank Demonstration Program Plan

City of Dallas
Housing Department
1500 Marilla 6DN
Dallas, Texas 75201

Overview

The 2003 Texas Urban Land Bank Demonstration Act provides an opportunity for Dallas to address the dual needs of insufficient affordable housing and older neighborhoods at risk. The Act allows the governing body of a municipality to adopt an urban land bank demonstration program in which the officer charged with selling real property ordered sold pursuant to foreclosure of a tax lien may sell certain eligible real property by private sale for purposes of affordable housing development.

The governing body of a municipality that adopts an Urban Land Bank Demonstration Program must adopt a plan annually. The plan must include the following elements:

- 1) A list of the parcels of real property that may become eligible for sale to the land bank during the upcoming year,
- 2) A list of community housing development organizations eligible to participate in the “right of first refusal” for acquisition and development of real property sold to the land bank,
- 3) The municipality’s plan for affordable housing development on those parcels of real property, and
- 4) The sources and amounts of funding anticipated to be available from the municipality for subsidies for development of affordable housing in the municipality, including any money specifically available for housing developed under the program, as approved by the governing body of the municipality at the time the plan is adopted.

The City of Dallas proposes to implement a local Urban Land Bank Demonstration Program and presents this plan for implementation. Before adopting the plan, the City of Dallas will hold a public hearing on the proposed plan. The City of Dallas will provide notice of the hearing to all City certified Community Housing Development Organizations (CHDOs) and to neighborhood associations identified by the City as serving the neighborhoods in which properties anticipated to be available for sale to the land bank are located. The City of Dallas will make copies of the proposed plan available to the public not later than the 60th day before the date of the public hearing.

Following the adoption of an Urban Land Bank Demonstration Program Plan, the plan will be implemented and annual performance reports will be available through the Housing Department no later than November 1 of each respective year.

City of Dallas' Urban Land Bank Demonstration Program Plan

Parcels of Property

The objective of the City of Dallas' Urban Land Bank Demonstration Program is to acquire unproductive, vacant, and developable lots to be "banked" for affordable housing development. The acquisition of these lots will enable new single-family development to house low- and moderate- income homeowners and stabilize distressed communities. This initiative will be implemented by means of the tax foreclosure process for properties with six years or more of delinquent property taxes.

The City has identified parcels of real property that may become available for sale to the land bank during the fiscal year beginning October 1, 2003 (see Attachment C). The considerations for parcel identification included vacant residential properties with at least six years or more of delinquent property taxes (reported from the Dallas County Appraisal District as of June 20, 2003) located in census tracts with at least 20 such properties. Priority is given to properties located in: 1) neighborhoods designated within the City of Dallas Neighborhood Investment Program, 2) neighborhoods with active Community Housing Development Organization projects, and 3) other neighborhoods identified by the City as being in need of new housing development. The parcels listed will follow a process of review to determine suitability for housing development before moving forward to tax foreclosure and possible land banking. This is a list of potential properties for the land bank. Not every property on the list will end up in the land bank during the fiscal year.

Community Housing Development Organizations

An organization which meets the definition of a Community Housing Development Organization (CHDO), under 24 CFR 92.2 and is certified by the City of Dallas as such, may be a "qualified organization" under Section 379C.011 of the Texas Local Government Code ("Code"). Only "qualified organizations" as defined in the Code may engage in the "right of first refusal" for this program.

A listing of those CHDOs that may be eligible for the "Right of First Refusal" is available as Attachment A. In order to engage in the "right of first refusal" on the acquisition of a property from the land bank, the CHDO must also have the following to be considered a "qualified organization":

1. Contain within its designated geographical boundaries of operation, as set forth in its application for certification filed with and approved by the City, a portion of the property that the land bank is offering for sale,

2. Built at least three single-family homes or duplexes or one multifamily residential dwelling of four or more units in compliance with all applicable building codes within the preceding two-year period of the date the property becomes available for purchase through the land bank and within the organization's designated geographical boundaries of operation, and
3. Built or rehabilitated housing units (within the preceding two-year period) within a one-half mile radius of the offered parcel.

Code Section 379C.011 explains the elements of the "Right of First Refusal" for "qualified organizations." The City of Dallas and Land Bank will apply the following points to this process:

1. Subject parcels will be offered for sale to "qualified organizations" first,
2. Written notice will be provided to the "qualified organizations" for the offering,
3. The time period for "right of first refusal" will be nine (9) months from the date of the deed of conveyance of the property to the land bank,
4. During this 9 month period, the land bank may not sell the property to a qualified participating developer other than a qualified organization. If all qualified organizations eligible to exercise the right of first refusal for that property notify the land bank that they are declining to exercise their right of first refusal during the 9 month period or if an offer to purchase the property is not received from a qualified organization during the 9 month period, the land bank may sell the property to any other qualified developer at the same price that the land bank offered the property to the qualified organization.
5. After the period for the "right of first refusal" expires, the subject property will be offered to a "qualified participating developer" as defined in the Code (a "qualified participating developer" is defined as a developer who has built three or more housing units within the three-year period preceding the submission of a proposal to the land bank and has a development plan approved by the City for the land bank property),
6. At the discretion of the land bank and consistent with the City approved development plan, the subject parcel may be held for up to twelve (12) additional months by the land bank once an offer has been received and accepted from a "qualified organization or "qualified participating developer,"
7. If more than one "qualified organization" expresses an interest in exercising its "right of first refusal," the organization that has designated the most geographically compact area encompassing a portion of the property shall be given priority,
8. There will be no requirements for the land bank to give "right of first refusal" for "qualified organizations" if the subject property has reverted to the land bank after going through this entire process.

City of Dallas Plan for Affordable Housing Development

The Dallas Metropolitan area has grown 29% since 1990 and continues to grow at a rate of 2% annually. With an increase of approximately 273,000 in population since 1990, the City of Dallas has identified high priority needs in the availability and affordability of housing. In fact vacancy rates for single family and multifamily housing units have dropped to 1.4% and 7% respectively. An additional concern is the low rate of 43% for homeownership in Dallas compared to the national average of 67%. However, only 3,300 homes priced less than $121,000 were built in Dallas between 1995-2000 and demolition of substandard homes may have reduced that gain.

In order to achieve a 50% homeownership rate goal, some 32,000 single-family units would have to be created. The priority for the City of Dallas is not only to create single-family homes but also to make them affordable. The definition of an affordable homeownership unit is one in which a household with income of 80% or less of area median family income can obtain financing to purchase the home.

The creation of housing for families at 80% or below of median family income is a priority for the City of Dallas and this Urban Land Bank Demonstration Program. Additionally, at least 25% of the land bank properties sold during any given fiscal year to be developed shall be deed restricted for sale to households with gross household incomes not greater than 60 percent of the area median family income. The tremendous need for housing in Dallas will also allow the City to take advantage of opportunities to leverage private and public funding for mixed income developments.

The City of Dallas intends to fully implement the Urban Land Bank Demonstration Program to produce affordable housing. The City of Dallas intends to sell properties to "qualified organizations" and "qualified participating developers" for affordable housing development under this program. Buyers will be required to submit development plans for approval along with requests to purchase available parcels. All properties will be deed restricted for the developer until construction is complete and sale of the affordable unit occurs. All parcels will be conveyed with a right of reverter so that if the "qualified participating developer" does not apply for a construction permit and close on any construction financing within the two-year period following the date of the conveyance of the property from the land bank to the "qualified participating developer," the property will revert to the land bank for subsequent resale to another "qualified participating developer" or conveyance to the taxing units who were parties to the judgment for disposition as otherwise allowed under the law. If a property is not sold within three (3) years to a "qualified organization" or a "qualified participating developer," the property will be transferred from the land bank to the taxing units who were parties to the judgment for disposition as otherwise allowed under the law.

Supportive Funding

Attachment B reflects the sources and amounts for funding anticipated to be available from the municipality for subsidies for development of affordable housing in the City of Dallas, including money specifically available for housing developed under this program, as approved by the governing body of the City of Dallas at the time of adoption of this plan.
